Report on Energy Conservation Day-2016

The Institution of Engineers (India), U.P. State Centre, Lucknow, celebrated Energy Conservation Day on 14th December 2016 in its premises. The Chief Guest inaugurated the celebration by lighting the lamp, with other dignitaries on the dais. Thereafter Dr. Bharat Raj Singh, Chairman of the centre welcomed the guests and the participants and informed about the objects of the Energy Conservation Day. He emphasized upon reducing the use of conventional energy. According to him recycle and reuse can be adopted as a method of saving energy.

Chief Guest Er. S. K. Verma addressing the gathering

Prof. Pankaj Gupta from SMS Institute of Technology told that conservation of electricity and the climate change are interrelated and so we have no option other than to save energy. The key note speaker Dr. Usha Bajpai, Professor in Lucknow University, specially quoted that we always talk about our rights but never bother about our duties. It is our duty to save the atmosphere from pollution and for this we should promote generation and use of safe energy. She opined that renewable energy never pollutes the atmosphere.

Er. G.K. Mishra, Superintending Engineer, Anpara Thermal Power Station, U.P. Raja Vidyut Utpadan Nigam, the other keynote speaker spoke about the National Energy Conservation and said that it should be rooted in the behavior of every human being. He said that saving energy in domestic use is though important but it is only a small part the conservation whereas much conservation is essential in Industrial use by using it efficiently. Laws are there but implementation of the laws is needed with strong conviction. He said that in designing a project the energy conservation should be taken into consideration at planning level itself.

The Chief Guest on this occasion Er. S.K. Verma, Director (Technical) in Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitaran Nigam, Uttar Pradesh stressed upon saving of avoidable use of energy. He informed that though bulbs were replaced by CFL and consequently by LEDs now but we must make the users aware of its profitability at their level too and every effort should be made to make it available easily at their door step in the beginning to make them habitual of using the energy efficient appliances and solar energy.

Earlier Er. J.S. Mishra, convener and past Honorary Secretary introduced the Chief Guest and the speakers as well as elaborated the importance of the day.

The celebration ended with a vote of thanks by Er. R.K. Trivedi, Honorary Secretary.
