

Profile of Prof. (Dr.) Bharat Raj Singh

Prof. (Dr.) Bharat Raj Singh is a distinguished environmentalist, mechanical engineer, researcher, academic administrator, and educationist with over five decades of experience in teaching, research, innovation, and institutional leadership. He is currently serving as Director General (Technical), School of Management Sciences (SMS), Lucknow.

Born in 1947 in Raibigha, Sultanpur District, Uttar Pradesh, Prof. Singh completed his Bachelor of Science from the University of Allahabad (1967), obtained his B.E. in Mechanical Engineering from Sardar Vallabhbhai Regional College of Engineering (SVRCE), Surat (1972), completed his M.E. from Motilal Regional Engineering College (MNNIT), Allahabad (1988), and earned his Ph.D. from Uttar Pradesh Technical University (UPTU), Lucknow (2010–11).

Prof. Singh has made remarkable contributions in the fields of environmental science, sustainable engineering, renewable energy, water conservation, and mechanical engineering. His innovative research on an air-powered motorcycle engine has received national and international recognition. His outstanding research achievements have been acknowledged through numerous prestigious awards, including three recognitions in the Limca Book of Records.

Beyond engineering research, Prof. Singh has actively promoted holistic education, yoga, and Vedic science through the Vedic Science Center, Lucknow, conducting training programmes in India and abroad to inspire healthy, balanced, and value-based living.

An accomplished author, researcher, and mentor, Prof. Bharat Raj Singh continues to guide students, researchers, and professionals through his dedication to scientific innovation, environmental sustainability, and human development, making him one of the most respected academic leaders in the country.